

Resubmission notes for “Cars in Alaska”

Karl Dunkle Werner

April 17, 2017

My readers and commenters have provided valuable guidance, and I’ve benefited significantly from their suggestions. In broad strokes, my changes have focused on three main areas. I’ve added more context, discussion of the permanent income hypothesis and refined my theory section; I’ve chosen control states more rigorously and improved the comparison between Alaska and the controls; and I’ve narrowed my focus to fewer event windows and regression specifications, moving the alternative specifications to an appendix. Hopefully these changes serve to make the results both more credible and easier to parse.

- 1 Comments from Michael Anderson and Thibault Fally
- 2 Comments from Claire Duquennois
- 3 Comments from Andy Hultgren